

and John was there and was very out of sorts / upset. Ray does not want to work for John. "John loves to give orders," says Ray "and I'm not taking orders from a 19-year old." In addition, JTB was nervous about a visit by Senator Mellow and City Council to the 3rd floor after their emergency meeting in Charlotte's office at 630 PM. In addition, John had run into John Moran who asked what we had done with the Columbia Hose Company materials in 302. More than three problems were on JTB's mind and I immediately decided not to attend the LNA meeting. RJT arrived at about 720 PM and he went down and represented us at the LNA meeting. I assured John that I would be present during any visit by Mellow & Council and John was re-assured. No such visit ever took place -- they all left the building at about 8 PM following their meeting. No John Moran / Columbia Hose matter -- it seems that John ^{Moran} had asked John Butermak where the woolen gloves were that were in 302. "We, the CHSM, did not take them," said I to John Butermak, "and so we do not have anything to worry about. The gloves were taken by others, probably Moses and his crew, and not us," said I to JTB. The Columbia Hose Company's materials / supplies / residue / whatever has not been pilloaged by us and so we have nothing to worry about. John was re-assured. I assured John that the Ray Surjes problem could be solved. Ray says that he will only continue to work on the project if he works for me and not JTB. Fine, no problem. I explained to John that Ray can have the impression that he is working for me but that he will continue to work for John. Nothing could be easier. I had a nice chat with John about the whole "problem" and John felt much better. John could not deal with the fact that his direct order to Ray
